Inaugural lecture: Takis Tridimas Sir John Lubbock Professor of Banking Law

17 May 2007

Venue: G02, Old Anatomy Building and if you will be attending Please let Sandra Baird know at s.a.baird@qmul.ac.uk

Judges, Markets and Politicians: Litigation and commerce in the EU

The influence of the European Court of Justice in the construction of the European Union has been enormous. The lecture will seek to assess the influence of the Court on the law of the Member States with particular reference to commercial law. What are the boundaries of market freedom? How much should be regulated by the nation State and how much should be done at EU level? What should be decided by the judiciary and what should be left to the politicians? Market freedom, separation of powers, and multi-level governance set the parameters within which the case law of the European Court of Justice will be examined.

CALL FOR PAPERS

3 rd Annual Workshop on the Law and Economics of Intellectual Property and Information Technology

5-6 July 2007 London, United Kingdom

Organised by:

Centre for Commercial Law Studies, Queen Mary, University of London and
Institute of Comparative Law “Angelo Sraffa”, Bocconi University of Milan

Workshop Description

The Annual Workshop on the Law and Economics of Intellectual Property and Information Technology aims at stimulating discussion between international scholars on the subject of intellectual property rights and information technology issues. It intends to provide a relaxed and informal venue for researchers to present and discuss their works and findings. To this end, submissions from any level of scholar working in the above subject areas are welcomed. The workshop welcomes an interdisciplinary approach.

Submissions are invited on any topic (both theoretical and empirical) that uses the law and economics method to analyse aspects of intellectual property or information technology. Topics might include, but are not limited to: intellectual property and innovation, knowledge and patents, copyright management, software, trade secret, information markets, copyright and media, information technology and justice, network externalities, competition, privacy, cybersecurity, e-commerce, public domain, open access and copyleft licensing, expansion of IP boundaries, historical trends and development in any IPR/IT related topic. Submission of either a full paper or a detailed abstract is required by March 23, 2007.

There is no participation fee. Participants are responsible for their own travel and accommodation expenses. Should you have any enquiry regarding the above event, please feel free to contact Ms. Minyan Wang at: ccls-workshop@qmul.ac.uk. All correspondence and submissions should also be sent to the above email address.

Important Dates:

Abstract Submission Deadline:	23 March 2007
Notification of Acceptance:	27 April 2007
Final Registration (All):	8 June 2007

Inaugural Lecture - Professor Isabel Rivers

Date: 23 May 2007

Time: 5.30pm

Venue: Skeel Lecture Theatre, People's Palace, Mile End

Details: Professor Isabel Rivers Inaugural Lecture

Vanity Fair and the Celestial City

In John Bunyan's famous allegory The Pilgrim's Progress the pilgrims cannot reach the Celestial City without passing through Vanity Fair, where everything is bought and sold. In recent years there has been much analysis of commerce and consumption in Britain during the long eighteenth century, and of the dramatic expansion of popular print culture. Similarly, much has been written on the extraordinary effects of the evangelical revivals of the eighteenth century in Britain, Europe, and North America. But how did popular religious culture and the world of print interact in this period? We now know that religious works formed the greater part of the publishing market, but what religious books were read, and how? Who chose them? How did they get into people's hands? Was eighteenth-century culture as secular as some scholars like to think?

Annual Bernard Corry Lecture - Recent developments in the UK labour market

Date: 30 May 2007

Time: 6pm

Venue: Skeel Lecture Theatre, People's Palace, Mile End

Details: Recent developments in the UK labour market

Speaker: David Blanchflower

The labour market has weakened over the past eighteen months or so. The active workforce has been swollen by immigration and the rising participation of older workers. Labour demand has remained firm or picked-up in many sectors, but on the whole has not kept pace with the additional supply. Consequently, while employment has risen, so too has unemployment. Recently though unemployment has started to fall and inactivity has picked up but wage inflation has remained benign. This lecture examines the causes and consequences of these recent trends.
